1. Nature of the tasks

The Unit 'Future of Work, Youth Employment' is looking for an experienced and motivated colleague to reinforce its Future of Work team.

The team examines the impact of the drivers of change such as digital transformation and artificial intelligence on current and future jobs and the quality of those jobs. It identifies policy gaps and new challenges in the world of work such as those related to platform work, telework, automation and the use of algorithmic management, and develops policy responses. The team also follows and contributes to relevant policy initiatives across the European Commission, relating to for example digital services, artificial intelligence and data strategy.

The accelerated digitalisation of workplaces puts the spotlight on issues related to surveillance, the use of data, and the application of algorithmic management tools. Artificial intelligence systems are often applied to guide recruitment, monitor workloads, define remuneration rates, manage careers or increase efficiency of processes. The recent Commission proposal for an AI Act lists certain AI systems used in employment, worker management and access to self-employment that are to be considered as high-risk and puts forward mandatory requirements for providers and users to fulfil before such systems are placed on the market. These set the ground for general human oversight of algorithmic management and set the framework for addressing algorithmic management. Building on this basis there is a need to further analyse AI implications for the world of work and possibly develop further actions specific to labour market challenges.

The selected colleague will therefore work on issues around digitalisation, with particular focus on artificial intelligence, algorithmic management and the use of data and their impact on labour markets, employment relationships, social dialogue and skills.

¹ These mentions are given on an indicative basis only (Art.4 of the SNE Decision).

The selected colleague will:

- undertake policy work in the area of future of work and digitalisation, and in particular algorithmic management and use of data, including for example:
 - contributing to the development of policy priorities and following up their implementation,
 - supporting working groups and networks, notably by assisting with their policy, steering, the organisation of meetings, peer learning activities, webinars, etc.,
 - analysing relevant research and making use of it in the context of policy work,
 - gathering and analysing information on relevant national frameworks and policy debates,
 - exploiting results of EU funded projects or successful national initiatives,
 - steering and monitoring the work of third parties (such as contractors), and
 - liaising with stakeholders.
- contribute with his/her knowledge, skills and expertise to the implementation of the Unit's work programme in cooperation with colleagues; this will include tasks such as:
 - providing inputs to briefings and speeches,
 - drafting reports,
 - contributing to meetings, and
 - liaising with other units and services of the Commission or other EU bodies and international organisations.

1. Nature of the tasks

The mission of the Directorate General for Neighbourhood and Enlargement Negotiations (DG NEAR) is to take forward the EU's neighbourhood and enlargement policies. This includes providing assistance to the countries covered by these policies to enable them to carry out the necessary reforms and to strengthen their basis for sustainable growth.

In this context, Unit A.4's overall objective is to coordinate policy and strategy for the Neighbourhood, Development and International Cooperation Instrument (NDICI) – Global Europe and the Instrument for Pre-accession Assistance (IPA III). The Unit oversees the legal framework for financial assistance, including aspects related to the Multi-annual Financial Framework (MFF), planning, programming, budget support as well as monitoring and evaluation (M&E) ensuring fact-based judgement on the relevance, effectiveness, efficiency, impact, sustainability and coherence of DG NEAR assistance.

We propose a job in the monitoring and evaluation team, with a wide variety of tasks, ranging from chairing discussions on important policy issues to contractual management. One of the key tasks is to manage an evaluation process from its very beginning (gathering information and drafting terms of reference, with the support of other EU services) to the dissemination of the results and the elaboration of a follow up action plan with a view to contributing to decision making on priorities and to improving the design and management of interventions, and enhancing accountability. The evaluations falling under Unit A.4's mandate are of a strategic nature for the DG. These are evaluations that analyse strategies from design to implementation, assessing the results of spending (projects and programmes) and non-spending (policy dialogues) activities. These evaluations are complex, covering several spending and non-spending activities and instruments over a significant period of time. They are conducted at several levels: country, region, multi-country, sector and instrument. Another key task is to ensure that since planning and programming phases, the intervention logic

1. Nature of the tasks

The European Commission's Directorate-General for Trade develops, implements and enforces the EU's trade and investment policy with the objective of asserting the interests of the European Union and its Member States as well as of European citizens, consumers, small, medium and large enterprises.

Trade and investment policy also helps to achieve broader EU objectives on supporting sustainable development, combatting climate change, and strengthening security as well as the EU's position in the world. It does this by acting unilaterally, bilaterally and multilaterally, and stands ready to react swiftly to anti-competitive and trade distorting behaviours through assertive enforcement actions.

The Chief Economist, Trade Analysis and Evaluation Unit contributes to this task by providing policy advice and economic analysis to trade policy makers and negotiators in the DG. To fulfil our role in DG TRADE, we combine in-house policy-focused analytical work, often based on quantitative models, with outsourcing of tasks to researchers and academics. Further information on the work of the Unit can be found here.

The current post is for an economist with good analytical, policy and communication skills who would, inter alia, (i) provide analytical input to studies carried out internally and externally and (ii) contribute to the economic analysis of the link between internal market policies and EU trade policies. The jobholder would also work to further improve outreach and relations with various stakeholders (other DGs, Member States, European Parliament, etc.).
