As for the case of a Spanish resident who is married in second or subsequent marriages, only the new spouse and their family members listed in this article may access this authorization if they prove that the dissolution of their previous marriages took place following a procedure that establishes the status of the previous spouse and their family members with respect to the common residence, any pensions for the spouse, and any dependent minor or adult children.

5. Direct first-degree ascendants in a direct line and those of their spouse, or registered partner or stable partner, provided that there has been no agreement or declaration of nullity of the marriage bond, or divorce, or the registration of the couple has been cancelled in the following cases: 1º. when they prove that they are living at their own expense and lack family support at origin, 2º. when there are humanitarian reasons..
